Dear Lo-———y Relatives,

By starting the salutation this way, each person can fill in the missing letters to personalize the greeting for his or her branch of the family. I've noticed that all spellings of the name begin with Lo and end with y. Someday I am going to investigate the family name Lansbury to see if there is any connection. Does anyone know if the two have a common origin? When using the spelling Lounsbury, as in the title of the newsletter, it certainly is intended to encompass all branches of the family. It seems most natural for me to write Lounsbury but I have great appreciation for and sensitivity to all other spellings.

I have left the first page of the newsletter until last. I guess that is the way with many newspapers to allow for any last minute news or FLASHES! We have neither but some additions, etc.

Addendum to the Lounsbury-bury-berry Reunion which appears on page 8. We have been informed that there is an excellent possibility of John Pederson from San Francisco, CA. being with the group as a speaker and entertainer. John, son of Ruth Lounsbury Pederson, is a musician, craftsman of musical instruments and a writer/teller of folk stories. He is the owner-operator of the "Amazing Grace" music store in San Francisco. We are looking forward to his presentation on July 30 in Westerlo. Be sure to reserve the date.

A word about the tree which is above. Over many months, my thoughts to develop a "logo" for the newsletter have materialized into what appears at the upper left corner. An enlarged version is on page 5 with an explanation of the derivation. Please see that page for further explanation.

1988 Reunions. Probably lots of pictures will be taken at all the reunions. If anyone has a good quality 5x7 or 8x10, black and white or color, of a group, please send a copy to the editor. We will try hard to publish it in the next issue of The Tree. A good way to identify those in the picture is to place a piece of transparent white paper over the picture, draw a circle around each face and then number the circles. Make a list of the numbers with the names and we will take it from there. Let's have some reunion pictures for the November/December issue. Send photos and the list of names.

Books and other publications for sale.

There have been numerous publications about the Lounsbury genealogy written by members of the family. At this point, I am not sure which ones are still available, out of print, etc. If anyone has a publication for sale and would like to have it listed in the newsletter, please send the details to the editor. Include the title, author(s), address where it is available and the cost.

Do you know of anyone who would/might like to receive The Lounsbury Tree and is not on the mailing list? Please notify him/her and ask that a request be sent to the editor with a mailing label or address on a card and a 25 cent stamp for each issue. We will probably have a few extra copies and will add the name to the mailing list for future issues.

As I conclude this edition of The Lounsbury Tree, I still see materials in a couple of folders to look through. Perhaps some more queries and other newsletter-worthy information. I will start working on it for the next issue. Keep the information coming... Until the November/December issue, I am very sincerely yours as a part of a very large family. Al Lounsbury, Editor.

WE HOPE TO SEE SOME OF YOU AT THE 1988 REUNIONS
These two news items appeared in the Daily Freeman of Kingston, New York -- the obituary on February 28, 1988 and the Historic District... item from Stone Ridge, New York on April 15, 1988. Historic district mines rich architectural lode

By SHIRLEY POWELL
Correspondent

STONE RIDGE — Within the next week or so, a section of Main Street will be listed on the state's Registry of Historic Places.

The designation will become official when state Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation Commissioner Orin Lehman sits down and signs the papers, action he has promised to take soon.

Buildings included in the district range from the old stone Cantine House (once known as "Quailtrap") to the Mary Bloomer House in all its Italianate architectural glory. Just as impressive are Merton Blanchard's Greek Revival home and the similarly-styled Davis Building, now D&D's Pharmacy, operated by the DiDonna family. Included in the district, too, are the Reformed Church and its next door neighbor, Marian Hasbrouck's Victorian home.

Clearly recalling the past is the Wynkoop-Lounsbury House, built by Major Cornelius Wynkoop in 1772. It was here that George Washington slept while on his way to Kingston on Nov. 18, 1782. The house with its unusual gambrel roof and exceptionally fine paneling was owned until recently by Sarah

STONE RIDGE Library, a life member of the Huguenot Society of New Paltz, the Ulster County Historical Society and a member of the Fair Street Reformed Church of Kingston.

Survivors include several cousins.

A graveside service will be 2 p.m. today at Wiltwyck Cemetery, Kingston. The Rev. Robert Gram, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, will officiate. Arrangements are under the direction of the H.B. Humiston Funeral Home, Kerhonkson. (She died 2/24/88)

Chipp Lounsbury, who died last month, William Peters of New Paltz, who recently bought it, is impressed that few changes have been made over the long years the house has stood beside the Old Mine Road (U.S. Route 209).

While Washington dozed that November night, the general's men bedded down across the street at Tack Tavern, still standing today. Old records show that Sally and Johannes Tack (pronounced Tock) built their house about 1750. After the Britsh burned Kingston, county court sessions were moved to the tavern during 1777. A room in the tavern later became Stone Ridge's first library.

By 1909 the Edward Lounsbury House had been donated as the hamlet's library. An 18th century stone house, the Lounsbury residence had been built squarely on its property line. Present librarian Marjorie Hasbrouck said that, at one time, when earlier owners wanted to put a window in the south side of the house, their neighbor wouldn't let them use a ladder on his property so the window could be installed. continued on page 3
But since 1980, the house next door — built by Isaac Hasbrouck in the mid-19th century — has been part of the library. It has stone sides, but the front is frame with a porch attached, a happy circumstance that permitted the buildings to be joined to double the space for books and storage and community meeting rooms.

Hasbrouck House Restaurant owner Nick Paras and Jaimee Hasbrouck, who lives with her mother Marian in her Victorian home, spearheaded the move for a historic district. Paras said that when he applied earlier for state designation for his building, "The people in Albany said they were interested in an entire district to include mine."

That was in 1984 and that was when he and Hasbrouck began canvassing area property owners about their interest in a historic district. They canvassed only from the Cantine House on the hamlet's southern edge as far up Main Street as the library and were then told state officials were interested in a bigger district that would extend to Mill Dam Road on the north. But it was later decided there were too many "incursions" — properties of no historic interest — in the north section, so the state fixed the district's northern border just south of the True Value Hardware store.

Paras' Hasbrouck House, which includes a bed and breakfast business with the restaurant, was built in the 19th century and owned by a number of Hasbroucks who made their money in Rosendale's cement industry. Paras said Matthew Hasbrouck was a friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and built the swimming pool at Roosevelt's Hyde Park mansion and the Hasbrouck House pool at the same time. That was 62 years ago and Rosendale cement was used in both pools.

Paras has owned the property, which once included 660 acres, since 1982. He first bought the house and 40 acres and later acquired 113 more acres from John Miner. Paras has refurbished the building and grounds and Miner continues to operate an apple orchard with a farmstand on state Route 213 near High Falls.

For Paras and other Marbetown residents, the historic designation offers an opportunity to cherish the area's colorful past and to look forward to future growth and development.

WANTED FOR FUTURE ISSUES OF THE TREE

Any of these may be mailed to Albert Lounsbury 212 Nelson Avenue, Saratoga Springs, NY 12866.

1. Old, real old recipes that have been in a Lounsbury family for many years. Something that was typically a favorite treat. Be sure to double check the recipe for clarity. Please type or print it. Some other Lounsburys may like to try the recipes. Perhaps we can all eat them on the same date for a bit of family custom or tradition. Please give the source of the recipe and how old it might be. That should add interest. (As a start, check elsewhere in the newsletter for Everyday's Cake.)

2. Living Lounsbury Twins. Please give the names, ages, place of residence and parents. Let's see how many there are and how frequently they occur. For the present, we will keep to within two generations of a Lounsbury surname, male or female. Of course, we want any variation of the Lounsbury spelling.

3. The Oldest Living Lounsbury Relative. Please give the full name, birthdate, place of residence, parentage back to a Lounsbury surname. Let's start with someone over 80 years. The complete address of the person would enable those who wish to send birthday greetings.

4. The Oldest Lounsbury at the time of his or her death. Please give the name, place of residence at time of death, date of death and the place of burial. (Please see the obituary of Sarah Lounsbury in this newsletter). We honor and pay tribute to her in this issue. When you send a death notice, please send the obituary if possible. We will try to publish those over 80 years of age.

5. The announcement of the death of any Lounsbury (surname or maiden name) giving the full name, birthdate, place of residence at the time of death, date of death and place of burial. These will be in an "In Memoriam" column.

6. Epitaphs From Lounsbury Gravestones. Something that is unique—religious, humorous, revealing about the person's character or personality, etc.

7. Directory of Cemeteries throughout the U.S. and Canada in which Lounsburys are buried. Sound like an ambitious project? Could be! We will try it if you will cooperate. Usually, anyone interested in family history likes to look through cemeteries for the family (continued on page 5)
Does anyone know about the ancestors or descendants of the following persons buried in the Benton-Bar Cemetery in the High Falls-Store Ridge, NY area near the Methodist Church Camp Epworth: Louisbury--Richard, d 1812, Sarah, d 1855 and Hiram, d 1862? Also, Frances, d/o John E. and Sarah C. Louinsbury, d April 1849? Her stone is away from the others and adjacent plots with Schmoker and Sahler names. Please send any information to the editor.

An old query (8/86) from Mrs Shirley Charette, 223 Conewood Ave, Reisterstown, MD 11136 seeks information on Great Grandfather's ancestors. Could she or someone else supply more information for a follow-up query? Reply to the editor.

Roberta Cornell, Box 116, Lisle, NY 13797 seeks information on ancestry of Isaac, b ca. 1852. His father's name may have been Thomas. Isaac m Helen Smith Lounsbery on February 10, 1892, Courtlandville, Cortland (Co.) NY census. Issue: Irving, 7 years in 1892 and George, 2 years old in 1892 census. Roberta's father, Robert, is a descendant of George. Anyone with helpful information, please contact Roberta at the above address.

name. Wouldn't it be helpful to have a directory so we know where to look, especially if time is limited when travelling?

Any information sent to the editor should include: name of the cemetery, street, road or route number on which the cemetery is located and the town/village/city which it is in or near. Also the spellings of the Lounsbury (surname only), approximate time span of the dates of death, and the state, county or province. This information will be compiled and published periodically in The Tree.

THE LOUNSBURY TREE-- This tree has an interesting derivation. It is an adaptation of a similar drawing which appears on two publications put out by Cornell Plantations at Cornell University, Ithaca, NY. The right side of the tree is all that appeared on the publication, NOTES. When I wrote for permission to use it, which was granted by the Director, I was told that the one on their publication was also an adaptation of an early English engraving which they have promised to send to me when they find it.

The copy on the roots, trunk and branches was taken from various publications and letters. Lounsbury: Origin, Meaning and Significance by Raymond H. Lounsbury and Helderberg Lounsbury, by Gertrude K. Dennis and Marie Lounsbury are two. Letters, etc. supplied the various spellings of Lounsbury. Since I did the master copy, we've learned of one more spelling--Lounsbury in Lancaster, PA. It will be added to the master copy when further revisions are made.

I look to the readers for a critical evaluation of the illustration. I would like it to have a true historical significance and certainly as authentic as possible. One thing which bothered me when doing the order in which the branches appeared. It was done randomly and is subject to change. Perhaps it is not that important but any suggested changes to make it more accurate will be readily accepted and appreciated. The master can be changed easily. When completed, it will be reduced to the approximate size on the cover and used as a logo for the newsletter. Please send any comments to Al Lounsbury, 212 Nelson Avenue, Saratoga Springs, NY 12866. NEW CANAAN ADVERTISER,
NEW CANAAN, CONN.,
THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1943

Purchase of the Griffith property in Main Street, home of the late ex-Governor P. C. Lounsbery, was discussed at the annual meeting of the board of finance. Harold E. Finch, chairman of the Republican Town committee, urged the board to take action for the Town to purchase the place for use as a Town Hall and a Town park. He declared that the main residence would make a suitable Town office building and that the Town should abandon plans to remodel the present Town Hall after the war. Francis D. Martin, a member of the board and chairman of the Town Hall Building Committee, had previously discussed the acquisition of the property with board members and the Town Hall Committee considered it two years ago. The property is now owned by the heirs of Mrs. William H. Griffith, late of Bridgeport, niece of Governor Lounsbery, who inherited it from him at his death in 1925.
