Lounsbury Lingo

You will notice a wide variety of surname spellings associated with the Lounsbury Tree. The most common spelling is "Lounsbury" though "Lounsberry" and "Lounsbery" are also prevalent. In 99% of researched cases, Canadians and Americans with these surname spellings are linked by common ancestors: Richard Lounsbury and Elizabeth (Pennoyer) Lounsbury of what is now Rye, NY, who were married there in 1670. There are many other surname variations who fit our extended family tree, including Lansbury (though apparently not the famous actress Angela Lansbury), Lainspeary, and Lonsberry.

For simplicity, we use the letter "L" to denote the surname regardless of its spelling. Hence the phrasing "L" Tree at the top of this page.

Lounsbury Shoots at Florida Gulf Coast University

In spite of the headline this was not another case of a school shooting. This was David Lounsbury demonstrating to his advanced criminalistics class what blood spatter looks like. David is an Assistant Professor at Florida Gulf Coast University, Fort Myers Florida and an expert in such subjects as Forensic Studies and Crime Scene Analysis, Military and Civilian Criminal Justice Issues, Foreign and Domestic Law Enforcement Issues, Terrorism, Counter-Narcotics, Executive Protection. ## Gallant Destroyer-Transport Rests Today on Bottom of the Pacific

Dickerson Put Up Terrific Battle Against Attacking Japanese Planes

WASHINGTON, July 11. (INS)—The gallant destroyer-transport Dickerson rested today on the bottom of the Pacific in the Ryukyus but only after terrific pounding and a stiff battle against attacking Japanese planes.

The Dickerson was attacked off Okinawa on April 2 and the navy disclosed today that the warship later was sunk by American naval guns because she was beyond salvage.

The ship was steaming 35 miles west of Okinawa when she was attacked by three two-engine Japanese fighters.

One of the planes came in to drop bombs from overhead while another roared in for stern, clipped the number one stack and crashed into the bridge, killing all personnel in the forecabin and immobilizing the forward guns. The bridge was destroyed and serious fires spread, accompanied by loud explosions.

The skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Ralph Lounsbury, of 1139 19th ave., Seattle, Wash., and the executive officer, Lt. Alexander McEwen, 2123 Sussex, Duluth, Minn., were among the 46 men and five officers lost in the engagement. The vessel carried approximately 150 officers and men, of whom 15 were wounded.

Carpenter's Mate Nicholas Fearconaro, of 9 Hughes place, New Haven, Conn., was a member of the forward repair party. His prompt action in combating raging fires was described by the navy as "commendable." He suffered severe burns on the face and hands but continued the fight until the order was given to abandon ship.

The Dickerson later was towed to Kerama, where an inspection showed her beyond salvage and she was sunk.

Fred C. Lounsbury – Crescent Embossing Company

Of the more than 50 quality Independence Day sets of postcards published in the early years of the 20th century by two dozen or so American and European firms, none are more interesting or patriotic than those by Fred C. Lounsbury and his Crescent Embossing Company.

As a young man, Lounsbury (1857-1917) spent nearly twenty years in the paper novelty business, mainly as a salesman, innovator and advertising specialist. Then, in 1896, he founded the Crescent Embossing Company in Plainfield, New Jersey, as a maker and supplier of all sorts of cardboard goods to the trade. Within five year, the firm was working out of a large building of more than 10,000 square feet and employing close to 50 people. Products included calendars, labels, advertising goods and, by 1907, souvenir postcards.

Most of Lounsbury's postcard sets have four cards each, a very unusual number and a radical departure from what was a common practice by publishers on both sides of the Atlantic. For those sets that are numbered - and many Lounsbury sets are not - such designations are found on the picture side. The series number is followed by a dash and the card number.

Two of his cards are shown here, he would appear to an ancestor of Mark Terhune Lounsbury more about whom below.

Notes for MILTON WISE LOUNSBURY:

Taken from Obituary in "The Highland Democrat Peekskill, NY", Saturday, March 29, 1924:

Milton W. Lounsbury died at his home on Washington Street, at 6 p.m., Friday, March 21, after a long illness. Mr. Lounsbury was born December 24, 1859, in Peekskill, the son of William Lounsbury, of Mt. Airy and Malinda Bloomer, of Cold Spring. There were six children, of which Henry survives.

At an early age, Mr. Lounsbury was sent to the school at Pleasantside, where he studied a few years, leaving afterwards to help on his father's farm. At the age of twenty-one, Mr. Lounsbury went west to Kansas and worked on a farm for four years. Saving his money and returning to Peekskill he started in business for himself as a contractor. A few years later Mr. Lounsbury began cutting ice and gradually increased his business.

As a contractor Mr. Lounsbury has had some large contracts. The excavating of the grounds of Edward Livingston, at Manitou, was under Mr. Lounsbury's supervision; also the grounds of John N. Tilden. The excavating for the Guardian Building, the Flatiron building and the grading for High Street are also specimens of work done by Mr. Lounsbury. He organized the Lounsbury Ice Company, which was later changed to the Lounsbury & Sons Co., and furnished ice to consumers for a number of years past.

On November 25, 1884, Mr. Lounsbury was married to Elizabeth Brown, daughter of Oscar and Martha (Hunt) Brown, of Peekskill, by the Rev. David Murdock, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. At the consolidation he went on the roll of the Peekskill Presbyterian Church.

According to records they lived in Pleasantside prior to New Jersey.

Both buried Hillside Cemetery, Cortlandt Manor, NY

vi. IRVING J. LOUNSBURY, b. 05 Nov 1864, Westchester, NY; d. 02 Feb 1898, Philadelphia, PA. Liz Maloy has that he died in Philadelphia, PA on the 4th of Feb 1898 age 33. Burial: Hillside Cemetery, Cortlandt Manor, NY

Queries

My sister recently bought four serigraphs by the artist Richard Lounsbury. Two of them came from a gallery in Houston, Texas, and were acquired by that gallery about 20 years ago. Does anyone have any information on this artist? Thanks! From: Priscilla Lounsbury Raino

I own an oil painting signed by "I. V. Lounsbury 1889". It is a beautiful scene of a farm house, fenced in yard with animals (cows and sheep), a horse and carriage in the foreground and a train running behind the house and barn in the back ground.

Can you possibly provide more information on the artist and if it is a past member of your extended family?

Thank you, Roy Layton email: roy.layton@yahoo.

The Genealogist's Psalm

Genealogy is my pastime, I shall not stray;
It maketh me to lie down and examine half-buried tombstones.

It leadeth me into still Court Houses,
it restoreth my ancestral knowledge.

It leadeth me in paths of census records and ships'
passenger lists
for my surname's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the shadows of research libraries and microfilm readers,
I shall fear no discouragement;
for a strong urge is within me;
the curiosity and motivation
they comfort me.

It demandeth preparation of storage space for the acquisition of countless documents;
it anointeth my head with burning midnight oil,
my family group sheets runneth over.
Surely birth, marriage, and death dates shall follow me
all the days of my life;
and I shall dwell in the house of a family-history seeker for ever.
